

HOUSTON JOURNAL OF INTERNATIONAL LAW

Subscription Form

The Houston Journal of International Law, published three times a year beginning with Volume 14, features timely articles of significance to both international lawyers and legal scholars. Although the Journal emphasizes private international law articles, it also publishes outstanding public international law articles that address topics ranging from human rights to international organizations. In addition, symposia and special issues are occasionally published.

The Journal invites submission of high-quality articles, recent development notes, and book reviews from the legal community on timely international legal issues. All manuscripts are promptly considered for publication. Submissions should be addressed to the Head Articles Editor at the Journal offices.
